According to recent news reports, the Minnesota Attorney General has filed a lawsuit against Wolf River Electric, alleging that the company engaged in deceptive sales practices regarding solar panel installations, including misleading customers about tax credits and using high-pressure tactics to sign contracts; this lawsuit indicates that concerns regarding the legitimacy of Wolf River Electric's business practices are currently being investigated by legal authorities.

Key points about the lawsuit:

Deceptive sales tactics:

The lawsuit claims Wolf River Electric misled customers about the amount of money they could save with solar panels and falsely stated that they were automatically eligible for tax credits.

High-pressure sales:

Consumers reported feeling pressured to sign contracts quickly, with concerns about hidden fees and financing terms.

Poor installation quality:

Some complaints also mention issues with the quality of solar panel installations once contracts were signed.

What you should do:

Do your research:

Before signing a contract with Wolf River Electric, thoroughly research the company, read reviews, and compare quotes from other solar providers.
